[01] I hereby certify that my work, which (has been or may be) selected for publication by The Publisher for a forthcoming issue of The Drury Gazette & Theo's Compass is my own original work and that it has never been published; or, if previously published, that I am the sole copyright proprietor. I hereby authorize non-exclusive global First Rights for both Print and eBook publication formats by Gary Drury Publishing Ministries[™] AKA The Publisher or by any other means (direct mailing, flyers, websites, etc.) of promoting my work as The Publisher deems necessary. This does not restrict the author from submitting his or her other material elsewhere.

[02] Author submitted work is for Print, eBook, and online publication format in specified The Drury Gazette & Theo's Compass Issues indicated in the LEFT column.

[03] I understand fully that I retain all rights to said work once relinquished by the publisher upon publication. The author striking out any text from this document will not release the said author from this agreement. The author completely and fully understands once the submission has been published that it can never be retracted from its published publication. This agreement immediately becomes non-expiring, irrevocable, perpetual and in perpetuity upon publication of said publication. The author agrees to completely and fully indemnify, defend and hold harmless The Publisher from any and all action brought against Author's work.

[05] Only compensation for use of said work is publishing credit and publication. No monetary compensation considered presently. Any withdrawal of submission must occur prior to typesetting. The writer agrees with any withdrawal of submission during or after the typesetting process The Publisher will be reimbursed for said work and any delay cost it causes publication at The Publisher's current fees and expenses during the time of withdrawal request to cover such expenses.

Author submission TITLES must be legibly printed here or on a separate sheet of paper: _____

UNDERSTANDING the AUTHOR RELEASE FORM
PLEASE DO NOT COMPLETE ANY INFORMATION ON THIS SIDE.

[01] The writer is guaranteeing The publisher that his or her submission is their very own work or that he or she has the complete copyrights to claim and use submitted work. You work will not be used by the publisher for any other publication or republishing without your consent. It is best to submit material that has not been published or submitted elsewhere. However, provided you have the right to do so.

[02] The writer must be clear that all publications are provided in both digital and print, and that printed copies are made available in two versions. One with black and white interior and the second with a full-color interior. This is done to ensure maximum exposure and reach more financial demographics.

[03] Publications today do not go out of print. Because of this fact, the author must fully and completely understand that once a publication has been published his or her work could not be retracted from the publication. Such a request has happened in the past and the writer could not be obliged. This is why the ARF states: non-expiring, irrevocable, perpetual and in perpetuity upon publication of said publication. The author agrees to completely and fully indemnify, defend and hold harmless The Publisher from any and all action brought against Author's work. The author should not confuse this as The publisher taking control of his or her work.

[05] The writer must be clear that the only compensation for the use of submitted work is publishing credit and publication. That there is no monetary compensation for being published in The Drury Gazette or in Theo's Compass. Both publications are designed to help promote Christian writers' books and share the writers' work. There are presently no paid commercial advertisements placed in the publications. The digital PDF ebooks are given to everyone free of charge. All costs are derived directly from the generous sponsorship of The Publisher's personal financing.

Author submission TITLES must be legibly printed here or on a separate sheet of paper: Do Not add Titles on this side of the paper.

Place 'X' Here if you want your submission considered for future issues. (Sometimes we want to accept your submission but it may not be appropriate for the current publication issue. Increase your submission's chance of acceptance for publication by indicating your consent with an 'X'. Here you have the opportunity to share your God-given creative talents and freedoms to the world at large.)

Questions & Submissions should be sent to thedrurygazette@gmail.com or theoscompass@gmail.com .

[06] Here is the writers' declaration affirming he or she fully and completely understand the terms and agreement of the Author Release Form. The writer signifies this understanding by signing and dating the document. Should the writer not read and understand this agreement, He or She is legally bound by the Author Release Form.

NOTE: You are NOT relinquishing your Copyrights by signing this document. You are temporary while we evaluate, typeset. Nevertheless, your rights return to you upon publication. This is normal as no publication wants a material that is concurrently being considered somewhere else. Simultaneous submissions are frowned upon. Anytime you don't fully understand anything in any document ask for clarification. Don't make assumptions as you may be severely mistaken.
